Local Engineers Join Honolulu District Ohana

For Immediate Release

January 17, 2007

By Honolulu District Public Affairs

(FORT SHAFTER, HI - NR 02-07) Todd C. Barnes recently was named the Honolulu District's new Chief of Engineering & Construction and Anthony J. Paresa was named as the District's new Deputy, Programs and Project Management Division.

Barnes brings to the Honolulu District a unique blend of private sector and Corps of Engineers experience.

Paresa moves over to the District from the Corps' Pacific Ocean Division where he was the Senior Military Program Manager in the Programs Directorate.

Barnes recently worked as the Corporate Manager (Vice President) for Project Manager Development of Weston Solutions, Inc.

He also has extensive active duty Corps of Engineers experience as a Project Engineer, Assistant Resident Engineer, Deputy District Engineer of the Honolulu District and as Assistant Director of Military Programs at Headquarters, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. He retired from U.S. Army active duty in 1995 as a lieutenant colonel.
